TSRA Executive Director Posting

TSRA Looking for Executive Director

Make a difference in the shooting sports community!

The Texas State Rifle Association is looking for an energetic, motivational self-starter with excellent communication and media skills for the position of Executive Director. The right candidate will be enthusiastic about shooting sports and adamant about Second Amendment rights. The candidate must be up-to-date on the issues surrounding firearm legislation and news as well as deeply involved in shooting sports, whether that be hunting, shooting competitions, or shooting education and safety. The right candidate will be able to communicate with a variety of stakeholders, including gun enthusiasts, legislators, media and the outside community, and parents and educators. Excellent communication skills, both written and spoken, are a must, with an emphasis on the relevance of TSRA membership.

The Executive Director will be responsible for a re-energized, updated, and sophisticated messaging platform that will take the TSRA to the next level for success.

The Texas State Rifle Association is the largest firearms and shooting sports organization in Texas, with over 40,000 members. It has a dedicated lobbyist who ensures legislative support in Texas for gun rights. The TSRA Foundation operates youth shooting and gun safety and education programs.

Candidates must have more than five years' experience as a senior manager, with a background in a nonprofit organization, preferably with statewide responsibility; fund development; and membership growth. Contact Lehman Associates for a full profile with more details.
